Student Academic Conduct Officers (SACO)

The Faculty is divided into three Schools, with each School being responsible for the teaching of specific undergraduate programs, and for related postgraduate supervision and research.

Within each School there is an Student Academic Conduct Officer who is a member of the academic staff. SACO's provide teaching staff in a School with the support required to ensure transparency and consistency for both students and staff in determining key standards in academic literacy and ethics. A part of their role is to investigate cases of suspected Student Academic Dishonesty. Please refer to the Student Academic Integrity Policy for further information.
