

APPLICATION FOR EMBARGO FORM

Use this form to apply for a period of embargo on your thesis.

You should carefully consider all implications before applying for any period of embargo. An embargo may impair the ability to publish your research or make your work or achievements known to potential employers. These issues should be discussed with your supervisor(s).

Approval is required by the supervisor, the Head of School/Nominee and the Assistant Dean Research Training, who will then submit this form to UON Graduate Research on the candidate's behalf.

Note: An embargo may be sought at the time of submission of the thesis for examination or at the time the final thesis is deposited with the University's digital repository, NOVA. Once the embargo expires, the thesis will be released for worldwide access. An embargo is normally approved for up to 12 months in the first instance. Continued restriction of access may be approved upon a written extension request submitted not less than 4 weeks prior to the expiry of the original embargo period. The maximum period for an embargo of a submission to NOVA is 24 months.
