Preferred Enrolment Location

The Joint Medical Program (JMP) is delivered jointly by the University of Newcastle and the University of New England in partnership with Hunter New England Area Health and Central Coast Local Health District. The curriculum for the JMP is identical across all institutions. Applicants are able to nominate their preferred enrolment location, either the University of Newcastle (Callaghan or Central Coast) or University of New England (Armidale), by completing this form. Applicants are also able to indicate if they would be willing to attend the alternate university in the instance that they do not gain selection at their preferred location. It is not guaranteed that an applicant will be allocated to their first preference.

My preferred enrolment location is University of Newcastle University of New England (Armidale)
 Callaghan campus
 Central Coast Clinical School

If I do not gain admission to my preferred enrolment location I wish to be considered for the alternate location Yes No

Miroma Bunbilla Program Online

The Miroma Bunbilla Program is a compulsory 5 day online JMP pre-entry pathway held from 30 November to 4 December 2020. Should you miss any scheduled activity within the program you will not qualify to be considered for entry to the JMP through this pathway. During the program participants will collaborate and complete assessment tasks via online study groups, and for the duration of the program are encouraged to utilise one of the university facilities listed within the Miroma Bunbilla Program webpages. Alternatively, participants may elect to connect to the online program from home.
