Flexible study means postgrad is possible

At the University of Newcastle, we prioritise flexibility to accommodate the diverse needs and lifestyles of our students. Whether you're a busy professional, a parent juggling responsibilities, or someone seeking a personalised learning experience, we have options to suit you.

Online learning

Our learner-centred online platform empowers you with complete control over when and where you study. Engage in highly interactive and collaborative virtual classrooms, guided by expert educators, all from the comfort of your home or office.

Mixed-mode learning

Tailor your study experience with our mixed-mode options, allowing you to combine online courses with face-to-face learning. This flexibility ensures that you can shape your education around your work, personal life, and learning preferences.

Welcoming campuses

Our campuses in Newcastle (Callaghan and City), Central Coast (Ourimbah and Gosford), and Sydney CBD are more than just places to study. They are vibrant, collaborative environments where you can connect with like-minded individuals, engage with expert educators, and immerse yourself in a rich academic community.

1. The Good Universities Guide 2022

"The flexibility, and to be able to complete the coursework at my own pace while working full-time, is a structure that has worked very well and has been amazingly convenient."

Charlotte
Master of Nursing

Charlotte enjoyed the flexibility online study provided her. She was able to study full-time online to accommodate her work and life balance.

"A friend recommended I take the Master of Medical Statistics. When I looked further into it, the flexibility of online, part-time study meant I could feasibly undertake this while working and being a mum."

Sarah
Master of Medical Statistics

After working in the veterinary pharmaceutical industry, Sarah decided it was time for a change and kick-started her postgraduate study journey.

Student success stories

Suraj

Practising Medical Doctor
Master of Public Health

"This program will support my current career. It will help me to take care of people at an individual and community level. Furthermore, it also opens the door for other positions and helps me get involved in promotive and preventative health policies and practices at the community and country levels."

Julia

External Relations
NewPsych Psychologists
Master of Business Psychology

"The Master of Business Psychology prepares students to undertake a variety of roles within a number of different sectors such as human resources, management, recruitment, learning and development, and change management. I gained a better understanding of these key sectors and business structures."

Matthew

Graduate Diploma
in Psychological Science

"The program didn't only support my current career; it has inspired me to expand my focus and has significantly influenced my purpose. I feel a deep responsibility to leverage my growing academic knowledge and personal experiences to make a positive impact in the mental health space."

Tanja

Master of Business Administration/
Master of International Business
Start It Up Pitch competition winner 2022

"Winning first place for my business idea 'My Green Haven' was a wonderful experience. The prize will allow me to receive the support and guidance I will need in these early stages of setting up a business."

Claudia

Architectural Technician
SHAC
Master of Architecture

"This degree will help me on the pathway to becoming a registered Architect. It expands on the creative thinking of the bachelor's degree and focusses on higher research and self-directed projects, similar to that in real practice. The chance to dive into a yearlong thesis project for my final year is something that will stand out in my portfolio."

Michelle

Assistant Business Manager
Belmont Christian College
Master of Business Administration

"Apart from having formal qualifications to provide credibility and substance to my employability, I have also found that skills and knowledge I already had have been deepened/expanded and updated, and I have been surprised by how relevant these skills and this knowledge has been in my day to day activities."

Professional development

Our courses and degrees have been created to ensure you receive the necessary skills to succeed in your chosen career path.

We have some of the world's best university professionals and external consultants who are specialists in their fields. They are selected for their superior academic qualifications, corporate experience, and excellent presentation skills.

Our courses draw on the latest research, are taught using relevant industry examples, and have a strong practical focus. This dynamic combination of theory and problem-based learning achieves maximum learning outcomes.

 newcastle.edu.au/study/professional-development

Short courses

Whether you want to do a 3-week online taster course, single subject or a six-month Graduate Certificate, we offer a range of options to help you kick-start your graduate learning.

Non-award and cross institutional study

Hundreds of undergraduate and postgraduate courses (subjects) across a range of disciplines and campus locations are offered at the University of Newcastle.

Depending on whether you are studying at another university and want to include one of our courses in your degree, or just want to take a single course to increase your knowledge and skills in a particular area, you can apply to study a single course. Non-award courses are not eligible for FEE-HELP, meaning you must pay all tuition fees by the census date.

newcastle.edu.au/non-award-admission

TIP!

If the course is relevant to your current career, speak with your manager about covering costs as part of professional development.

Open online courses

We offer open online courses across a range of subject areas. Courses are free to study, however students have the option of purchasing a certificate to verify their participation.

Open courses are a great way to sample a range of study and research areas from across the University and provide you with an insight into studying if some time has passed since you last picked up a textbook.

Which degree is for you?

There are over 85 postgraduate coursework degrees available for you to choose from. Whether you want to dip your toes into further study via a Graduate Certificate or are ready for a longer commitment via a Graduate Diploma or Masters qualification, there is something available to suit your needs.

 newcastle.edu.au/degrees

TIP!

Always check the program handbook available via a degree's dedicated web page, where you will find admission requirements and other information to help you decide if the program is right for you.

Graduate Certificate

40 units typically completed in 0.5 years full-time study or part-time equivalent, designed to achieve the specified learning outcomes. The Graduate Certificate qualifies individuals who apply a body of knowledge in a range of contexts to undertake professional or highly skilled work and is a pathway for further learning.

Graduate Diploma

80 units typically completed in one (1) year full-time study or part-time equivalent, designed to achieve the specified learning outcomes. Graduate Diplomas can also provide a pathway to further learning.

Masters

A Masters Degree (Coursework) program is typically one (1) to two (2) years full-time or part-time equivalent, designed to achieve the specified learning outcomes. These degrees can vary in length; some are 80 units with the longest being 240 units.

Higher Degrees by Research (HDR)

A Doctor of Philosophy (PhD), typically completed in 3.5 years full-time or Master of Philosophy (MPhil) degree, typically completed in two (2) years full-time, will connect you with the top tier of researchers. This opens up incredible opportunities to advance your career, pursue breakthrough discoveries, and solve the world's most formidable problems. The University offers Higher Degrees by Research programs in our areas of research specialisation.

While some choose to undertake a minor thesis first through a Masters coursework qualification, depending on your background and research experience you may apply directly into an MPhil or PhD degree.

Fees and costs

We strive to make education accessible and affordable. With a range of financial options, support systems, and scholarships, we're committed to helping you pursue your dreams without financial barriers.

Application fee

It is free to complete an application for programs that offer direct entry through the University of Newcastle. A fee applies for applications that must be made via the Universities Admissions Centre (UAC).

Commonwealth Supported Places

A number of our postgraduate programs offer Commonwealth Supported Places (CSP), allowing eligible students to be charged at the government subsidised rate. Eligible students can defer their contributions through HECS-HELP.

Fee-paying programs

These are degrees without Commonwealth Supported Places. Eligible domestic students can apply for an interest-free loan through the FEE-HELP loan scheme, deferring payment until earning above the minimum salary threshold.

Financial assistance

We offer support systems, including scholarships and emergency loans, to help with study costs. You may also be eligible for Australian Government assistance with HECS-HELP and FEE-HELP loans, and income support.

Financing your studies

Out-of-pocket course fees may be tax-deductible if related to your current work activities. Check with the Australian Taxation Office for eligibility.

Scholarships

Each year, more than $4 million in scholarships is awarded to students. Our scholarship programs align with the University's values of excellence, equity, sustainability, and engagement. Many scholarships result from generous philanthropic donations, reflecting our belief that talent and dedication deserve support. Don't rule yourself out; apply for all scholarships you meet the criteria for.

Student services and amenities fee (SSAF)

All students must pay an SSAF to fund non-academic services and amenities. Eligible students can defer payment as part of the enrolment process.

Find out more on fees and costs.

Application Process

For most postgraduate coursework degrees, you can complete an easy, online application form. Applying only takes around 10 minutes and there is no fee for direct applications.

 newcastle.edu.au/study/postgraduate/apply

Credit

To be considered for credit, ensure that you list any prior qualifications in your postgraduate application. Our Admissions team will review your qualifications and experience and determine if you are a suitable candidate for recognition of prior learning (RPL) or credit.

We will request any required documentation, such as your official academic transcripts and course outlines.
newcastle.edu.au/study/postgraduate/credit

International applicants

If you are not an Australian citizen, New Zealand citizen, or the holder of an Australian Permanent Residency visa, you are able to apply directly through our International Office or via an education agent depending on your home country.
newcastle.edu.au/study/international/how-to-apply

Recognition of prior learning

For some degrees, if you have additional qualifications or experience above what is required for admission, you may be eligible for recognition of prior learning (RPL). This means you can complete your degree faster with fewer courses to undertake. Where relevant, different pathways are outlined on each degree page on our website.

Application closing dates

We have multiple intakes available each year for our postgraduate coursework degrees. You can check which intakes are available for your chosen degree in the 'fast facts' section on the degree's dedicated webpage.

If you are applying directly to the University of Newcastle, please adhere to the application closing dates listed on this page. All required supporting documents must be received by these dates. Applications received after these dates will be considered for the next available intake.

* Some programs have an early closing date. Please refer to the application closing dates.
