The purpose of this research is to find academic sources that have already published and provide knowledge relevant to your essay. Although you may sometimes use non-academic sources in essays, it is important to understand how to find and use the prescribed number and types of academic and scholarly sources. To help you get started, for this assessment you will need to find three relevant and current scholarly sources other than the recommended textbooks, relevant to the essay topic. All three must be sourced through the university library database (not google!). You must include at least two sources that are from academic, peer reviewed journals. You will report on your sources using the template available on the course site. The essay question, which is also the topic for the research task, will be posted on the course site. You are expected to use at least five (5) different academic sources, including at least three (3) articles from academic journals sourced through the university library database. The remaining two (2) academic sources can be textbooks (for this assessment, you may include the recommended texts for this course) or other academic books. You may include the same sources as for Research Task but do not have to. You may also use other, non-academic sources, provided you use them with appropriate care but note that these are in addition to the required number of sources indicated above. All sources used must be correctly cited in-text and listed in your reference list at the end of the essay using APA referencing system. As Course Coordinator I will try to respond to your email within three (3) working days. I will not normally respond to emails over the weekends. Please be courteous in your email communication and in the online space.

Canvas is used to distribute course material, announcements and other information. It is also used for online quizzes and to allow students to track their individual progressive assessment results throughout the semester via Grades.

Discussions forums in Canvas can be used to ask questions about minor issues. Students are strongly encouraged to use these to communicate with each other, discuss issues relating to the course, and solve minor problems.

Attendance and Engagement

In addition to face-to-face hours in class, out-of-class study and related work will require an additional commitment of up to 10 hours per week of reading, preparation, and study time over the semester. Students are required to spend on average 120-140 hours of effort (contact and non-contact hours including assessment) per semester per 10 unit course.

To maximise your learning opportunities, you should read all relevant material prior to attending class.

It is strongly recommended that you attend your classes every week. Our data shows that you will get better results if you attend class with your peers. If you do have to miss a class, you should catch up on any missed work by accessing lecture recordings if you are enrolled face-to-face. While online tutorials are recorded, on-campus tutorials are not, so you should view other resources available on your Canvas site and contact your course coordinator if you would like advice on how to best catch up on any material that was missed. If you are unable to attend classes regularly you should reach out to your course coordinator as soon as possible to discuss ways that you can continue to engage with the learning material.

A plan of regular revision throughout the semester is also strongly recommended to help you manage your time, consolidate information and retain that knowledge for the duration of the course and beyond.

Assessment items have been designed to reinforce and revise the course material, and ensure you are up to date with course content. You are required to submit all assessable items by the due dates unless prior arrangements have been made.
