OVERVIEW

Course Description

This course provides students with an in-depth analysis of leadership styles, behaviours and achievements in the context of contemporary organisations. Situational and contingency approaches to determining the effectiveness of leadership are evaluated from a practical perspective, and leadership competency frameworks are explored as diagnostic tools and as precursors to leadership development initiatives. Competing perspectives in organisational leadership practices are highlighted, and the concept of leaders as architects of climate and culture is considered through a series of case-studies. The case study method is used throughout this course to emphasise the practical applications of theory.
