OVERVIEW

Course Description

Management is something we do every day, whether we are managing ourselves, others, organisations, or our environments. There is no one best way to manage, successful management depends on many factors and often success can only be known in hindsight. This course provides the ideas, skills, and tools to improve how you think and act about managing. In particular, the course emphasises critical thinking, communication, and project management in groups. Students are required to apply management concepts to resolve case-based management dilemmas and develop a business consultancy report requiring logic and knowledge. Working individually and in groups, students will develop skills in oral and written communication, group project management and reflective learning.

Assessment 1 – Business Consultancy Report: Outline and Group Reflection

Assessment Type	Written assignment
Purpose	The purpose of this assessment is to develop students skills in research and engagement in group project management. The assessment has two parts: 1A, the development of an outline for a business consultancy report, and 1B, a structured reflection on learning from the group project management experience. The same case-based dilemmas are used in all assessments.
Description	1A: Business Consultancy Report Outline. Students self-select into a group consultancy team of four to prepare an outline of a Business Consultancy Report in response to a management dilemma. selected from the list provided on CANVAS. Please note: Self and Peer Assessment: A single mark is given for the group assignment. This mark will then be moderated by "self and peer assessment" using the SPARKPlus software so that individual group members may receive different marks. Any moderated individual mark received by each group member is based on contribution to the assignment and, more importantly the ability to work with others. Individually group members are required to submit a self and peer assessment through SPARK within 24 hours of the due date. Failure to complete SPARK will result in a mark of zero. The criteria for the self and peer assessment are found along with the instructions on how to use SPARK on CANVAS. Please note: NO SPARK NO MARK.

Note: SPARK is not the same as the reflection assignment. SPARK requires you to assess yourself and your team colleagues. The reflection requires you to analyse, in management concepts, specific incidents that occurred during the team project and draw out what you learnt from them.

1B: Reflection on group experience and learning

The reflection is assessed on accurate identification and application of management concepts, the depth of analysis and learning outcome, and integration among the three sections. See CANVAS for detailed assessment guide, resources, examples, and rubric. Both assignments are returned through CANVAS.

Feedback on both assignments is through CANVAS.

Presentation plus written assignment

The purpose of this assessment is to consolidate analytical and project management skills through a group presentation on one of the management dilemmas. Description

2A: Group Presentation on Solutions to a Management Dilemma

Students are allocated to a group of four (4) to prepare a six-minute presentation (1.5 minutes per person) on one of the dilemmas for the Business Consultancy Report. All group members must participate in the preparation and presentation. The presentation must be persuasive, including appropriate presentation skills, group cohesion, and insightful content. Presenters should not read notes—eye contact with the audience is essential. The presentations are held during tutorials from Week 8 to Week 13. Students are expected to demonstrate knowledge, comprehension, and application of relevant management concepts to the reflection. The explanation/s of concept/s requires a citation and reference.
